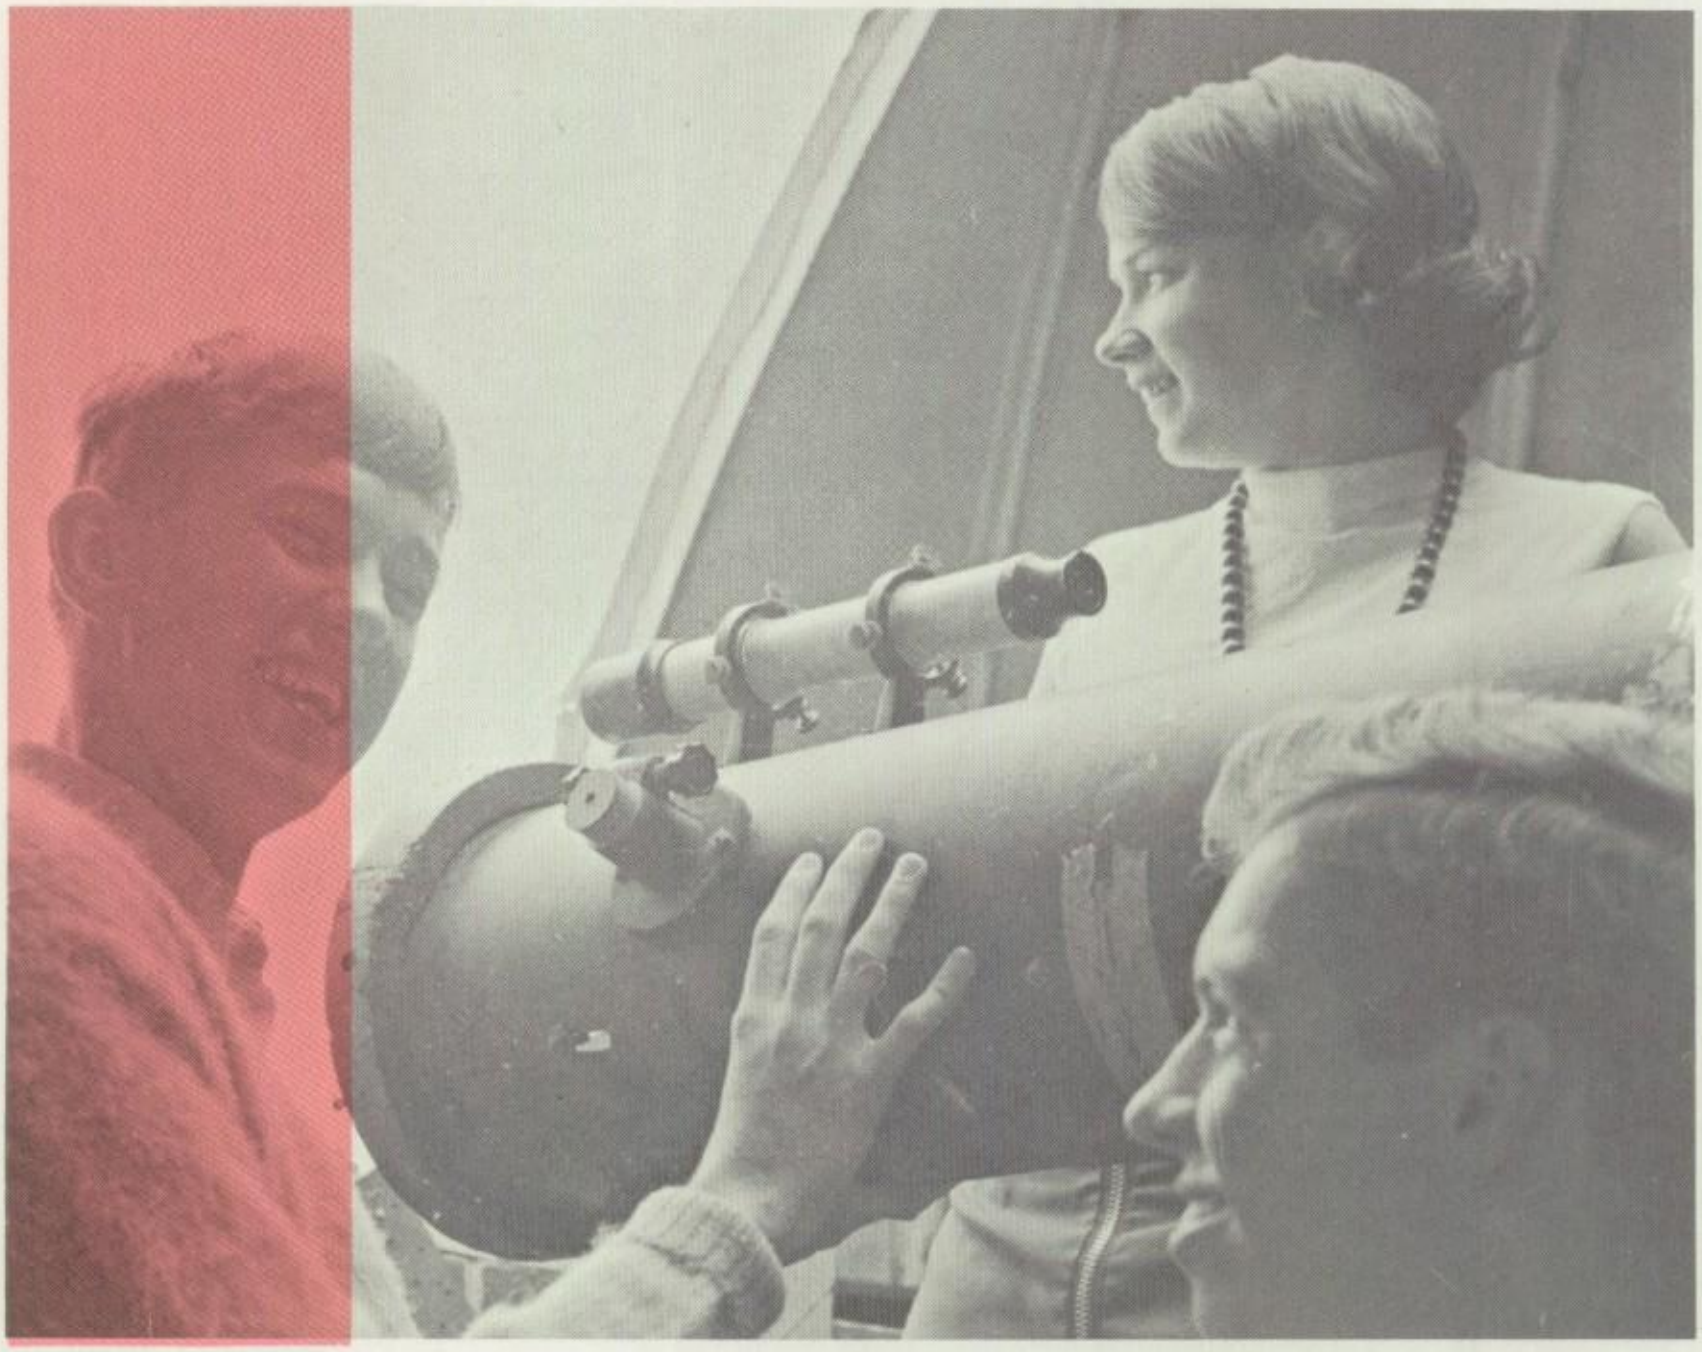
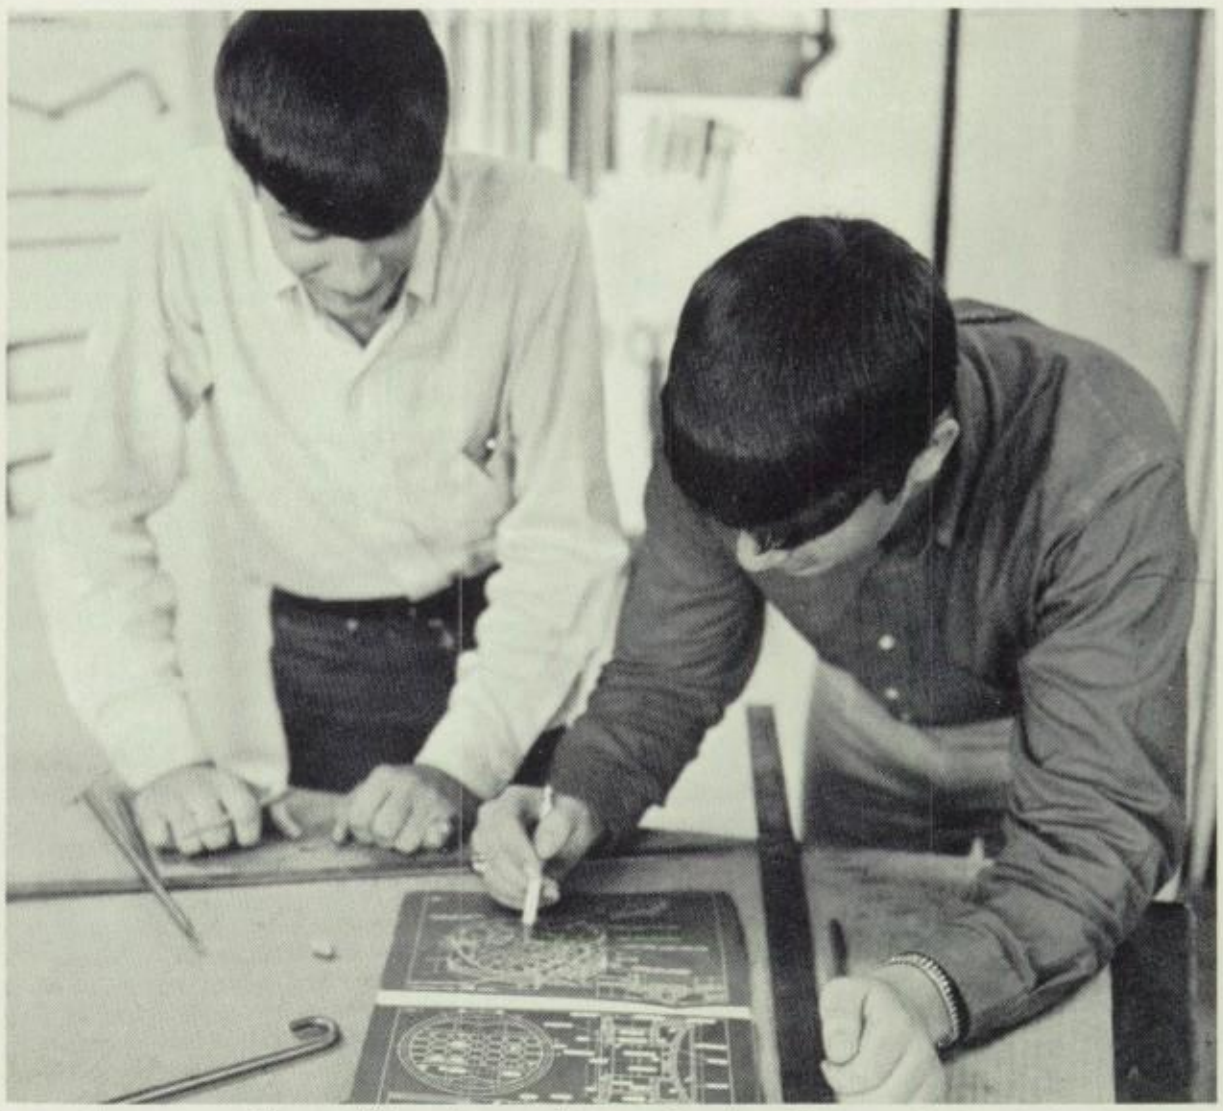
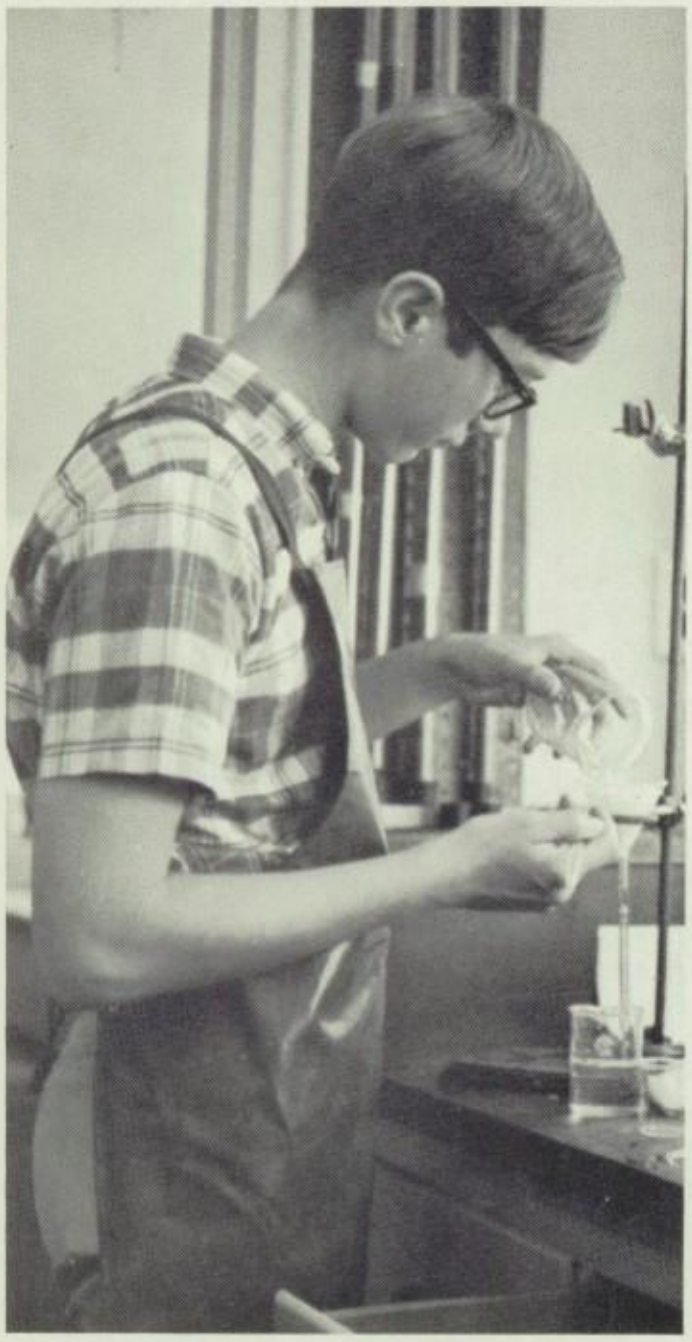
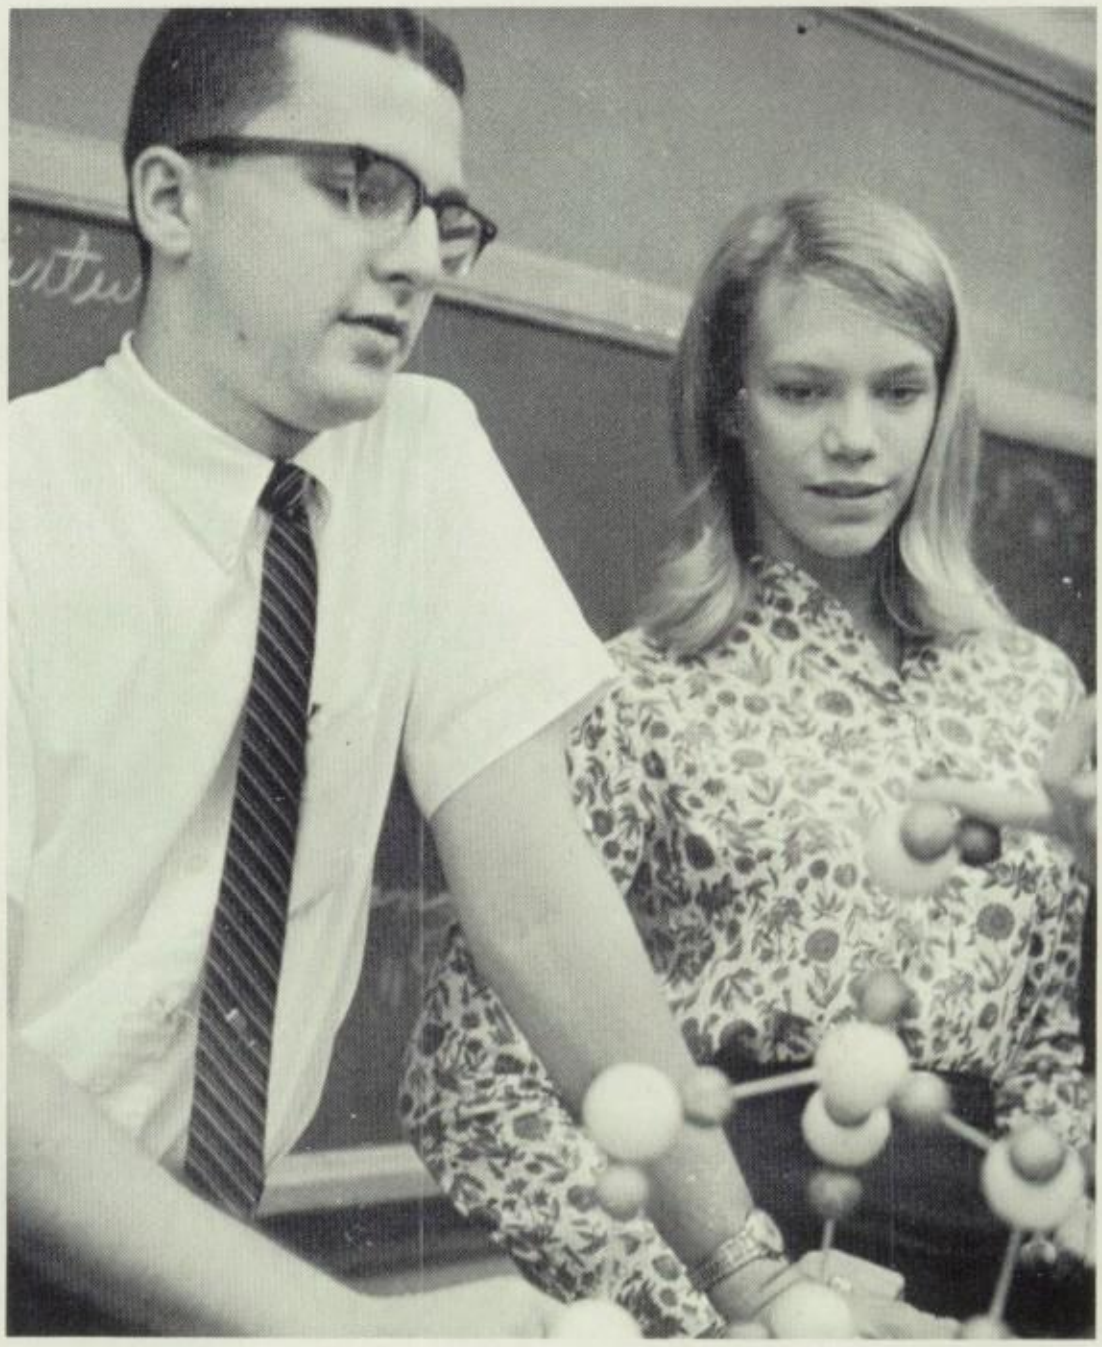
Patterns Are Universal

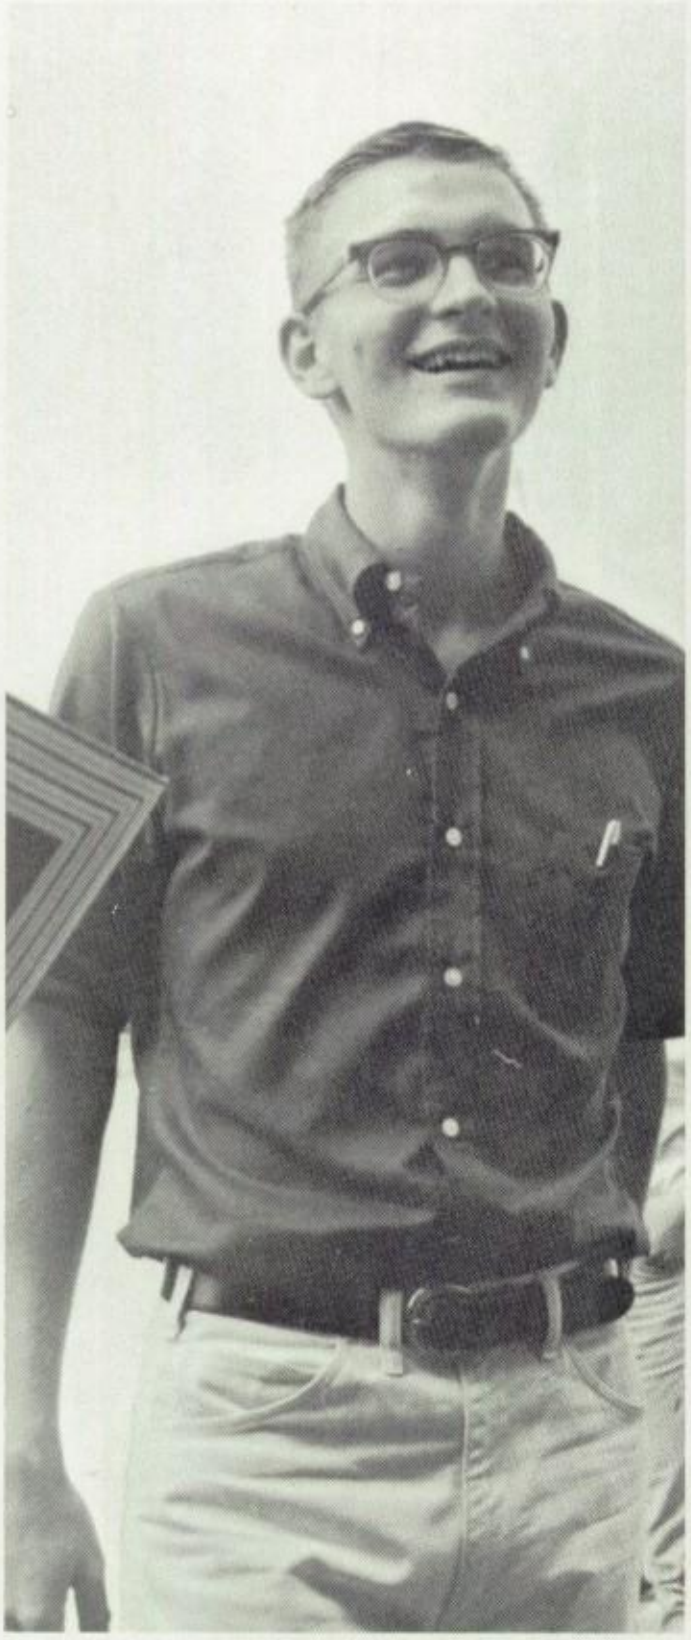




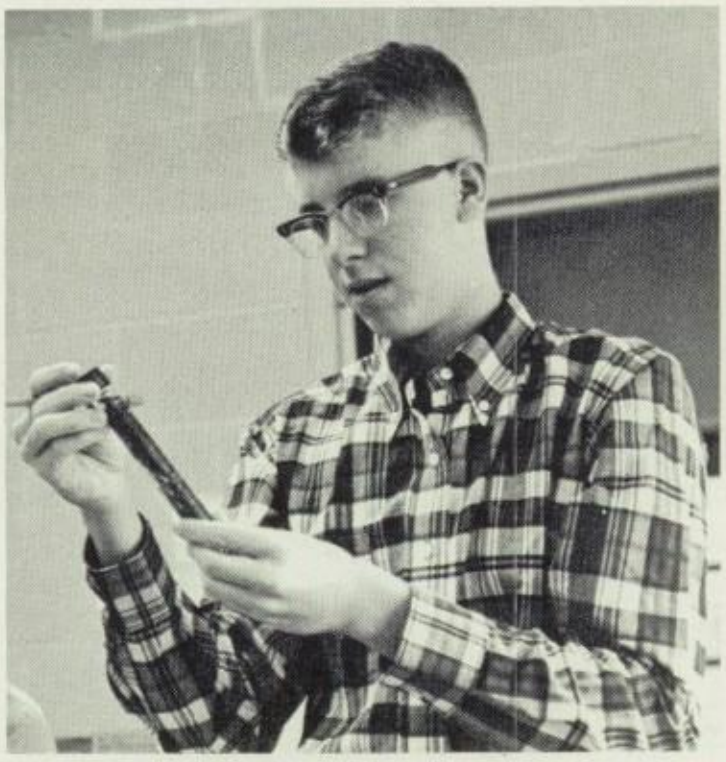
From the natural patterns of atoms and star systems to the seamstress's pattern and the blueprint, patterns help to give form and meaning to our lives. They offer bases for understanding and for future actions, and they can be extended and improved.



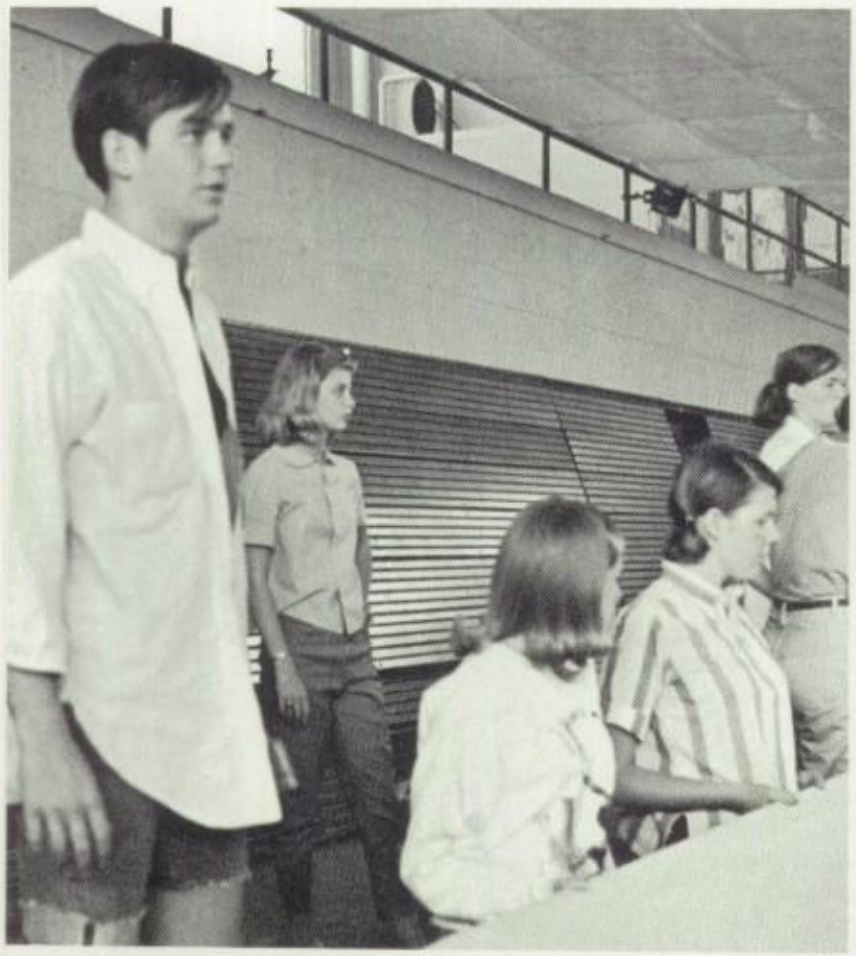




Patterns play a large part in school life — the format of classes, homework, and extracurricular activities.



Electing officers, working on the Prom, and giving monologues are traditional patterns that round out the education of the student.



Patterns can be built upon because they are not necessarily rigid structures. In high school each student is given a rough pattern, his schedule of classes, but how he enriches that pattern with organizations, athletics, or scholarship is up to him.

Students in general are perhaps unaware of the various factors which comprise their complex yet balanced educational patterns. The plan of this yearbook is to help each student recognize and remember his particular educational pattern.

The English Department requires four years of study for all students. The first two years deal with proper usage and sentence structure plus a general coverage of prose and poetic techniques. Junior and Senior levels deal with American and British literature, respectively. Speech, dramatic arts, and journalism are offered to promote creativety in students. Mr. Haney (pictured above with members of Girls' Choir) stresses knowledge, skill, and appreciation of music. Students have the opportunity to participate in one or more of seven vocal groups. Freshman Girls' Glee is opened to any freshman who has an interest in music. Mixed chorus requires no audition but gives the interested student an opportunity to sing. Girls' Choir, Choir, Boys', Girls', and Mixed Ensembles are select groups of students who often entertain at school and private functions. Music theory offers more extensive music training.

The custodians (L. to R.: Monska, Hughes, Mullins, Hendersen, Griffith) are responsible for maintaining our school's appearance. From shoveling snow to sweeping halls, Mr. Monska and his staff see that the building and grounds are kept clean and in good condition.

Serving the juniors and seniors in the west cafeteria are a staff of cooks (L. to R.: N. Metz, L. Severance, B. Sagsetter, G. Hushower, P. Hard). These cooks, aside from preparing meals daily, help at such functions as pancake breakfasts and smorgasbords.

Worthington's fine staff of cooks plan a variety of well-balanced, nutritious meals for students and teachers each year. The east cafeteria is staffed by seven cooks who are assisted by several student assistants (L. to R.: E. Felder, E. Campbell, L. Thompson, J. Post, J. Alexander, A. Porterfield, D. Marks).

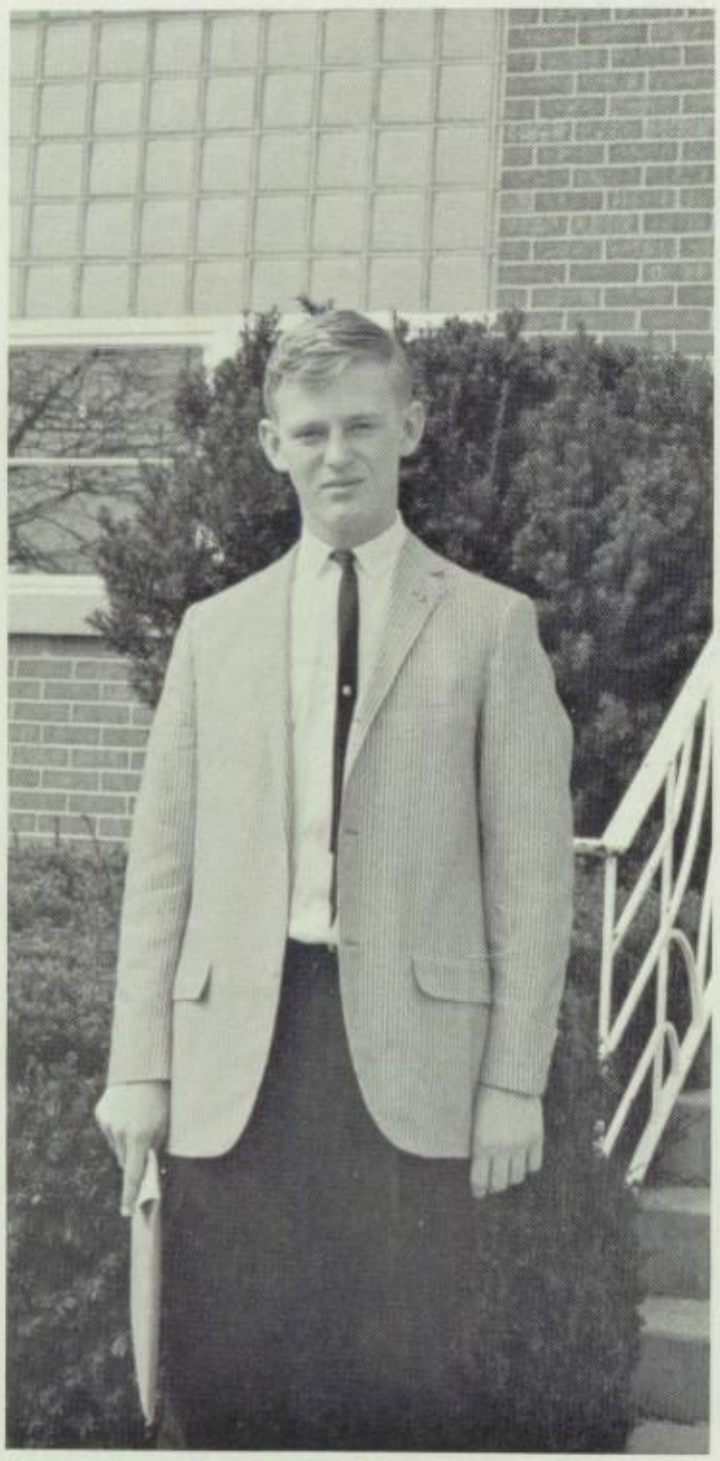
Jon Benner represents student leadership as student body president.



Student Council, the traditional liaison between the student body and faculty, was reorganized this year into two groups, the general and representative assemblies. Each group of students discussed school problems, proposed recommendations to the faculty, and planned various school functions. The sale of school supplies, planning of assemblies, and conducting of elections are all responsibilities of Student Council chairmen. Student Council members participate in activities such as the Homecoming mum sale, a computer dance, and the running of a coat check at basketball games.

The Student Council is a vital organization at W.H.S. Each homeroom is represented so that any member of the student body may have his ideas carried to meetings. Student Council brings faculty, administration, and students together to improve relations and build a better school.

Secretary M. Wood reports at a meeting. Seated are Treasurer P. Lechner, Recorder E. West, Vice-President J. Bonnell, and President Jon Benner.

The Cardinal Chronicle, the school's four page newspaper, is published monthly by Mr. Mansfield's journalism class. Editor Doug Cochran and his staff furnished subscribers with current news of W.H.S. activities. Reviews of interesting movies and books were given in each issue by columnists Margaret Tabor and Karen Boatman. Barb Grazer supplied students with interesting school gossip. Each student on the Cardinal Chronicle staff gained valuable journalistic experience in preparing a newspaper.

The Acropolis, an annual publication, is the school's literary magazine. The Acropolis staff, headed by advisor Mrs. Bettridge and Editor Mary Ann Eddy, reads and selects stories, poems, and essays written by students. The 1966 Acropolis featured writings by students in grades one through twelve.

The Quill and Scroll Society is opened to any junior or senior who has displayed outstanding work in journalism. In addition to the members pictured, five new members elected in 1966 are: Margaret Tabor, Karen Boatman, Mark Conrad, Lynn White, and Doug Wilson.

The Acropolis staff includes: C. Rousculp, C. Cowgil, B. Baker, D. Wray, D. Mondrach, M. Conrad, M. Wood, S. Wendon, M. Eddy, K. Boatman, and M. Tabor.

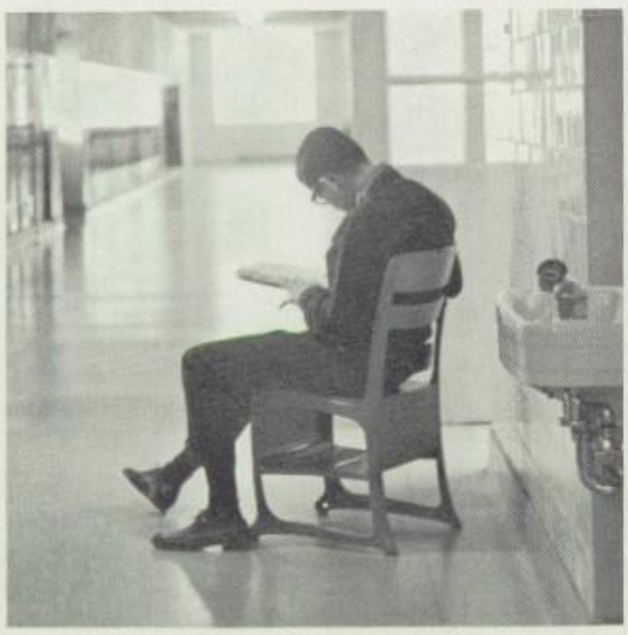
Lucho and his date sit at the forty yard line at the Homecoming Dance.



Lucho takes a makeup test in the hall.

Ecuador's Lucho stands beside flags representing the countries of former A.F.S. students.

The purpose of the American Field Service program is to earn the money to enable a foreign student to attend W.H.S. This year under the leadership of advisor Mr. Lowery and officers Sue Robinson, Sylvia Wendon, Mariane Randles, and Cindy Davis, A.F.S. played host to Louis Moreira of Ecuador. Lucho, as he is called by his classmates, has done much to make the students of Worthington aware of the scope of the A.F.S. program. He has patiently answered questions about customs, government, and life in Ecuador, helping us all to know and to understand him better.

Lucho admits "It is very interesting that you put so much attention in school activities. They are so many, so different, and so full of school spirit." Lucho not only enjoyed American holidays, but also "the day to day school life with those sleepy study halls; half hour lunch periods, and races in the halls and stairs at the change of periods."

This year knowing Lucho has shown how beneficial A.F.S. can be. "It is not particularly the new language or the different place that has made this experience an unforgettable one, but all the friendly people who make it so hard for me to say goodbye to Worthington."

Junior Y-Teens Serve School And Community

Mrs. Redick and Mrs. Lauber served this year as advisors of a busy club, Junior Y-Teens. One of the largest groups at W.H.S., Junior Y-Teens, composed of freshman and sophomore girls, participated in the Lily Parade and March of Dimes. The girls also enjoyed, as a novelty, a powderpuff football game. Led by President Lee Tracy, Vice President Libby Schildknecht, Secretary Sue Benner, and Treasurer Wanda Walker, the club enjoyed an active year.

The Senior Y-Teens, affiliated with the Y.W.C.A., was again active in sponsoring many worthwhile projects. Members of the club sponsored the Sadie Hawkins dance, Christmas Formal, and a dinner in honor of the Varsity "W". Y-Teens also made joke scrapbooks for hospitals. Miss Patton and Miss Lynch were advisors and the officers included President, Nancy Walker; Vice-President, Mary Schildknecht; Secretary, Sally Davis; and Treasurer, Beth Arter.

Responsible for the club is President, Nancy Walker.

Y-Teen activities are planned by the cabinet (B. Arter, M. Schildknecht, P. Overton, K. Hamilton, S. Meyer, M. Forman, and D. Harding).

Orchestra director Mr. Miller is responsible for the numerous concerts presented throughout the year.

The orchestras, under the leadership of Mr. Miller, have carried out an ambitious program this year. For one thing, this was the first year that there have been two orchestras: the Senior Symphony Orchestra and the Senior Chamber Orchestra.

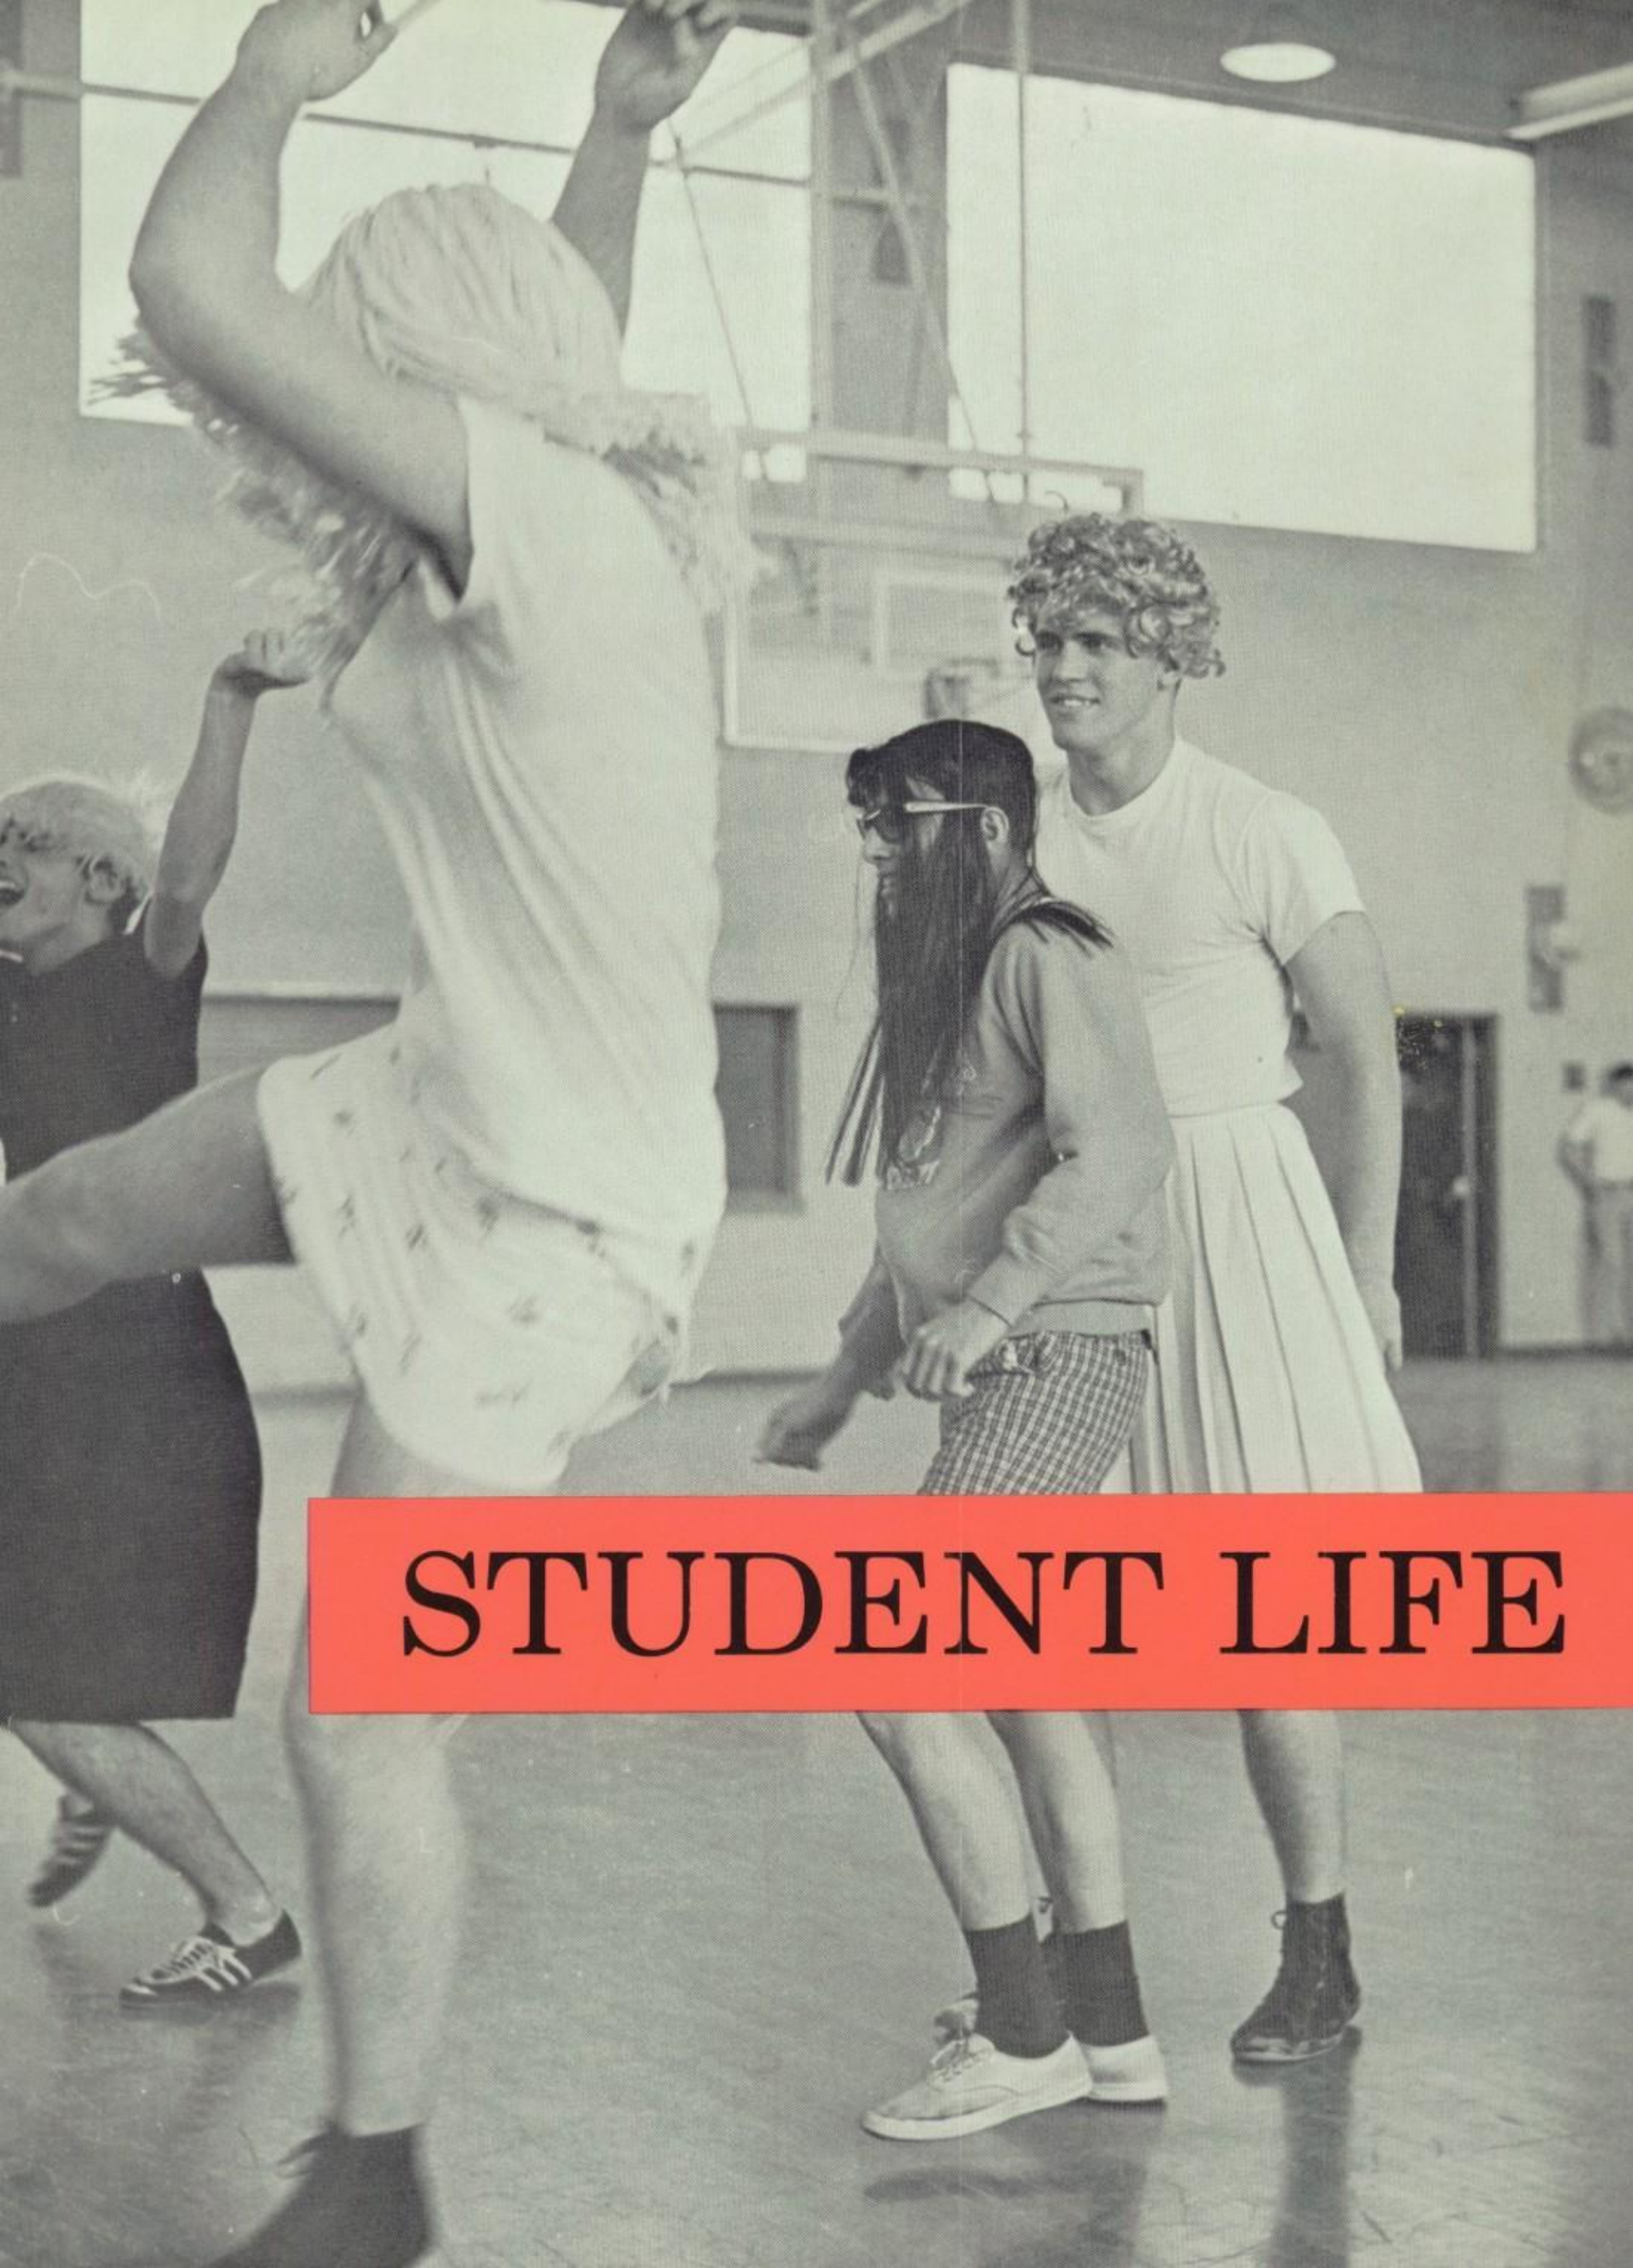
The two orchestras played three concerts this year: "Symphony in Autumn," the "Valentine Punch Concert," and "Symphony in Spring." They played separately for the two symphony concerts, but joined together for the Punch Concert.

Besides such an ambitious program of performance, the senior orchestras have made a study of the Rococo and Classical eras. This study included not only the music of the eras, but also the art, architecture, literature, and philosophy, depending on the individual student's interests. By learning about other aspects of the life at that time, the students gained a valuable insight into its music. Hopefully, their appreciation and enjoyment of the music will thereby be enhanced.

The orchestra program of W.H.S. promises to be an increasingly broad one, with ever greater challenge and stimulation, not only for the students involved, but also for all those in the student body and on the faculty who share in one of the products of the program, the concerts. The program will undoubtedly continue to improve in the years to come.

Composing a string quartet are: P. Scofield, L. Kratch, P. Parkinson, and M. Randles.

The string quartet plus one includes: H. Walker, B. McCallum, K. Robbins, D. Niemi, and J. Benner.



STUDENT LIFE

Worthington Students Experiments

CAMELOT

The very name "Camelot" suggests magic. All the enchantment and tragedy in the legends of King Arthur and his knights of the Round Table was centered in that castle called Camelot.

In the Lerner and Loewe version of the Arthurian legend, the part of the story most stressed is the triangle of Arthur, Queen Guenevere, and the fantastic Sir Lancelot. Supplying some rather engaging evil are Sir Mordred, Arthur's illegitimate son, and the gluttonous Queen Morgan le Fay.

Essentially, Camelot is a tragedy. Even the romance between Guenevere and Lancelot leads toward the destruction of Arthur's court. However, the play is liberally threaded with bewitching music and delightful comedy.

Camelot was presented by the Worthington Music Department and was directed by Mr. Haney and Miss Hottenroth.

Bill Syverson as Mordred practices his philosophy — "You'll never find a virtue unstatusing my quo!"

Guenevere (Jane Allison) admits to noble Lancelot (Ken Strickland) "I Loved You Once in Silence."

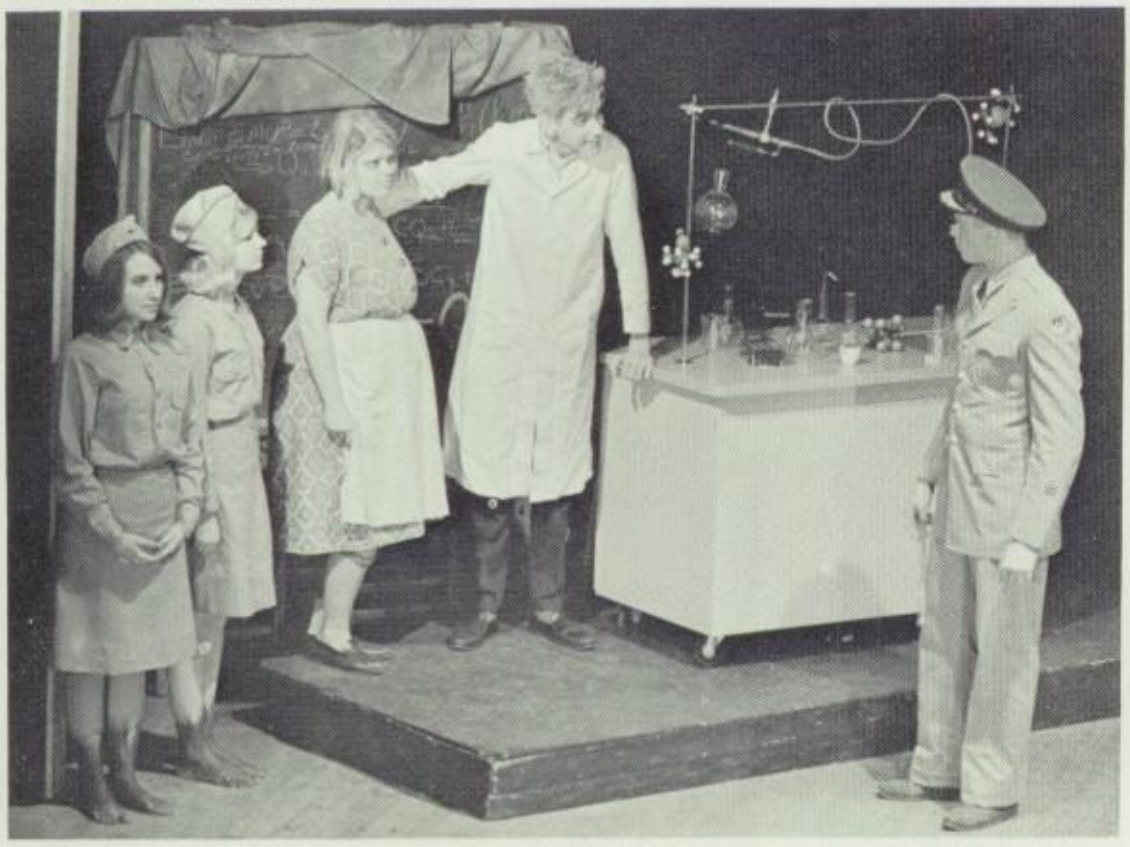
Brave Sir Pellinore (Mickey Davis) with his dog Horrid searches Camelot for the elusive Questing Beast.

The court of Camelot joins Guenevere at the May Day celebration.

In Music And Drama

The Mouse That Roared was presented by the Thespians with Miss Riester as director, Veronica Ragatz as student director, and Kathy Hard as assistant student director.

General Snippet (Ross Long) and his daughters (Judy Ross and Gay Joslin) investigate the laboratory of Professor Koknitz (Bill James) in the presence of Mrs. Reiner (Karen Rafos).



THE MOUSE THAT ROARED

This Leonard Wibberly comedy has quite a few zany twists. The story concerns the efforts of the tiny country of Grand Fenwick to be conquered by the United States in order to receive financial aid. To accomplish this plan, they send their tiny army to attack the United States with such modern weapons as bows and arrows. After wading through the chewing gum infested streets of New York, the army, under forester Tully Bascomb, captures a powerful bomb and returns in triumph to Fenwick.

Unfortunately, Queen Glorianna is not very pleased. The mouse has roared to loudly!

Fleeting Wisp Of Glory. . . Camelot

During the second semester of the '64-'65 school year, Worthington students displayed all the symptoms of something which could be termed "Camelot fever." Still under the spell of the highly successful operetta the Junior class attempted to recreate the mood of the legend of Camelot for their Prom.

On the evening of May 15, the night of the Prom, the gym had undergone its final transformation into a medieval village complete with market place, grist mill, and the castle of King Arthur. In the center of the dance floor a Maypole created an illusion of Spring, and the platform constructed for the band was strung with bright colored flowers.

Guests at Camelot (K. Rowland, B. Bressler, J. Dutcher, G. Yerian) leave the legendary castle of King Arthur.

Among the chaperons was Merlin the magician.

Guests were greeted by smiling maidens (J. Folk, K. DeMerit) in the market place.

Early arrivals dance under the colorful blossoms of the maypole.

December's combined Christmas Formal and Cardinal Queen Dance was held in 1965 as "An Old Fashioned Christmas." The choosing of a queen, a traditional part of the Cardinal Queen Dance, was a major event of the evening.

Seven girls elected by the student body competed for the title of Cardinal Queen. The final choice (on a basis of personality, poise, and appearance) was Miss Kathy Hamilton.

After the crowning of the winner by Cardinal Business Manager Jon Benner, Anne Hill, last year's queen, presented to Kathy the traditional bracelet.

Choir Sets The Stage For Guys And Dolls

The 1966 operetta was Guys and Dolls, a musical version of Damon Runyon's novel. The large cast was led by Sheri Huffman as brassy, blonde Miss Adelaide, John Trego as the conniving Nathan Detroit (Adelaide's fourteen year fiancé), Bill Syverson as Sky (Obadiah) Masterson, and Ellen West as the prim Sarah Brown of the Save-a-Soul Mission. Winnie-The-Pooh Battles Kangaroo

Winnie-the-Pooh is a children's theater fantasy about the adventures of a "hunny" loving bear named Pooh, his human friend Christopher Robin, and a host of humorous and appealing animal characters. The play relates the story of the troubles a maternal Kangaroo brings to the forest where the animals live. Kanga and her baby Roo disrupt the peace of the forest by dragging Pooh's friend Piglet off for a round of baths and doses of medicine. Through various schemes and some pure chance Piglet is recovered and Kanga moves on with Koo to find another place to live.

The play, directed by Miss Nedra Stimpfle, was presented by Thespians to a uniquely responsive audience of children.

Experienced Thespians Present Spring Play

Death Takes A Holiday, the Thespians' spring production directed by Miss Nedra Stimpfle has an eerie atmosphere of impending menace. In the play Death (Frank Lowery) takes a few days vacation during which nothing dies on earth. He is attracted to three women, but two of them are afraid of him. Only the third, an eighteen-year-old girl, overcomes her fear and falls in love with Death. Through his experiences, Death finds out why people fear him.

The spring play cast seen on stage includes: L. Moreira, V. Ragatz, S. Barry, M. Fulton, M. Howard, C. Tippett, C. Smith, F. Lowery, S. Koenig, R. Dipner, G. Hedden, N. McCormick, and S. McCormack.

With Popcorn, Clowns, Balloons, And Prizes,

On the evening of May 21, 1966, many months of hard work were climaxed as the juniors presented "The Greatest Show on Earth." The gymnasium was transformed into a colorful circus scene complete with caliope, fortune-teller, and merry-go-round. Bright murals covered the walls and the ceiling was lowered to achieve a tent-like effect. The lobbies became midways as the couples won prizes at carnival games. Much credit goes to prom chairman Helen Weller and her committees for making the 1966 prom one to remember.

Even the clowns get into the swing of things.

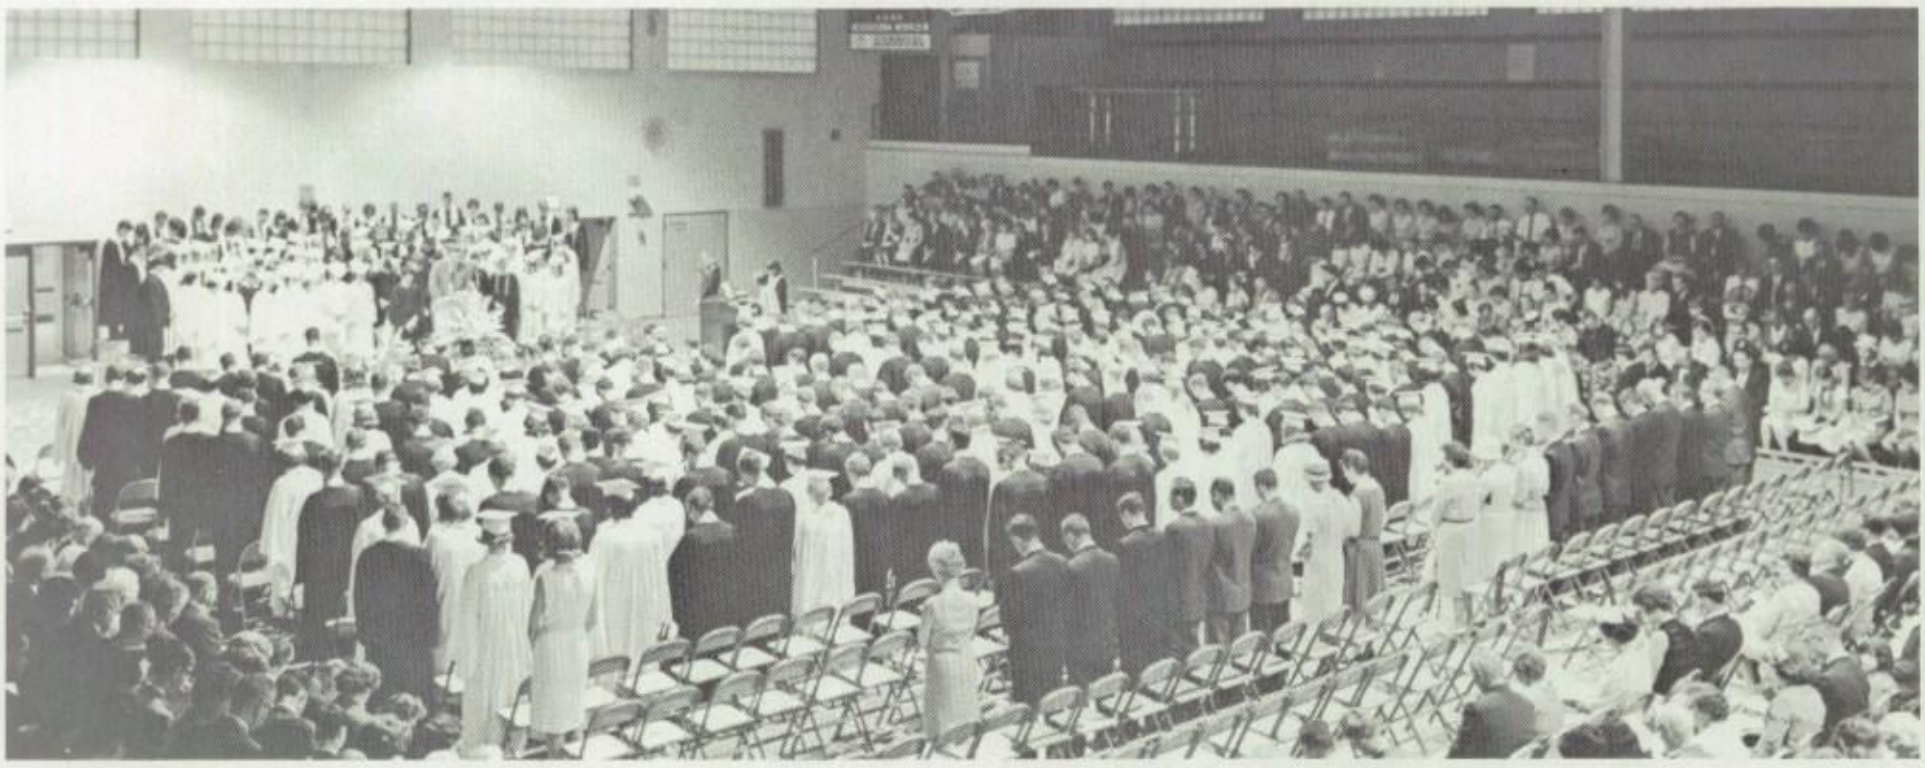
Seniors Observe Traditional Baccalaureate Services



Parents, faculty, and friends of the seniors attend the traditional Baccalaureate services.

The Reverend James R. Baldwin of All Saint's Evangelical Lutheran Church addresses graduating seniors.

Senior members are honored for their final participation with the choir.

On Sunday evening, June 5, 1966, the 345 members of the Senior Class gathered in the gymnasium for Baccalaureate services. Pastor of the Grace Brethern Church, David L. Hocking, gave the Invocation and Benediction, and the Reverend James R. Baldwin delivered a meaningful sermon entitled "Keep Your Heart." Senior choir members, directed by Trenton Holtsberry, climaxed the evening with an anthem traditional to all senior class, "No Man Is An Island."

On the following Thursday evening, June 9, 1966, Commencement exercises were held. Originally scheduled at the football field, seniors and spectators were forced indoors as the weather appeared threatening. Due to the unfortunate interruption in the exercises, speeches by Mr. Douglas R. Stanfield, and Co-Valedictorians Jeanne Harrison and Margaret Tabor were not heard. The 50-year graduates were recognized, and diplomas were immediately awarded.

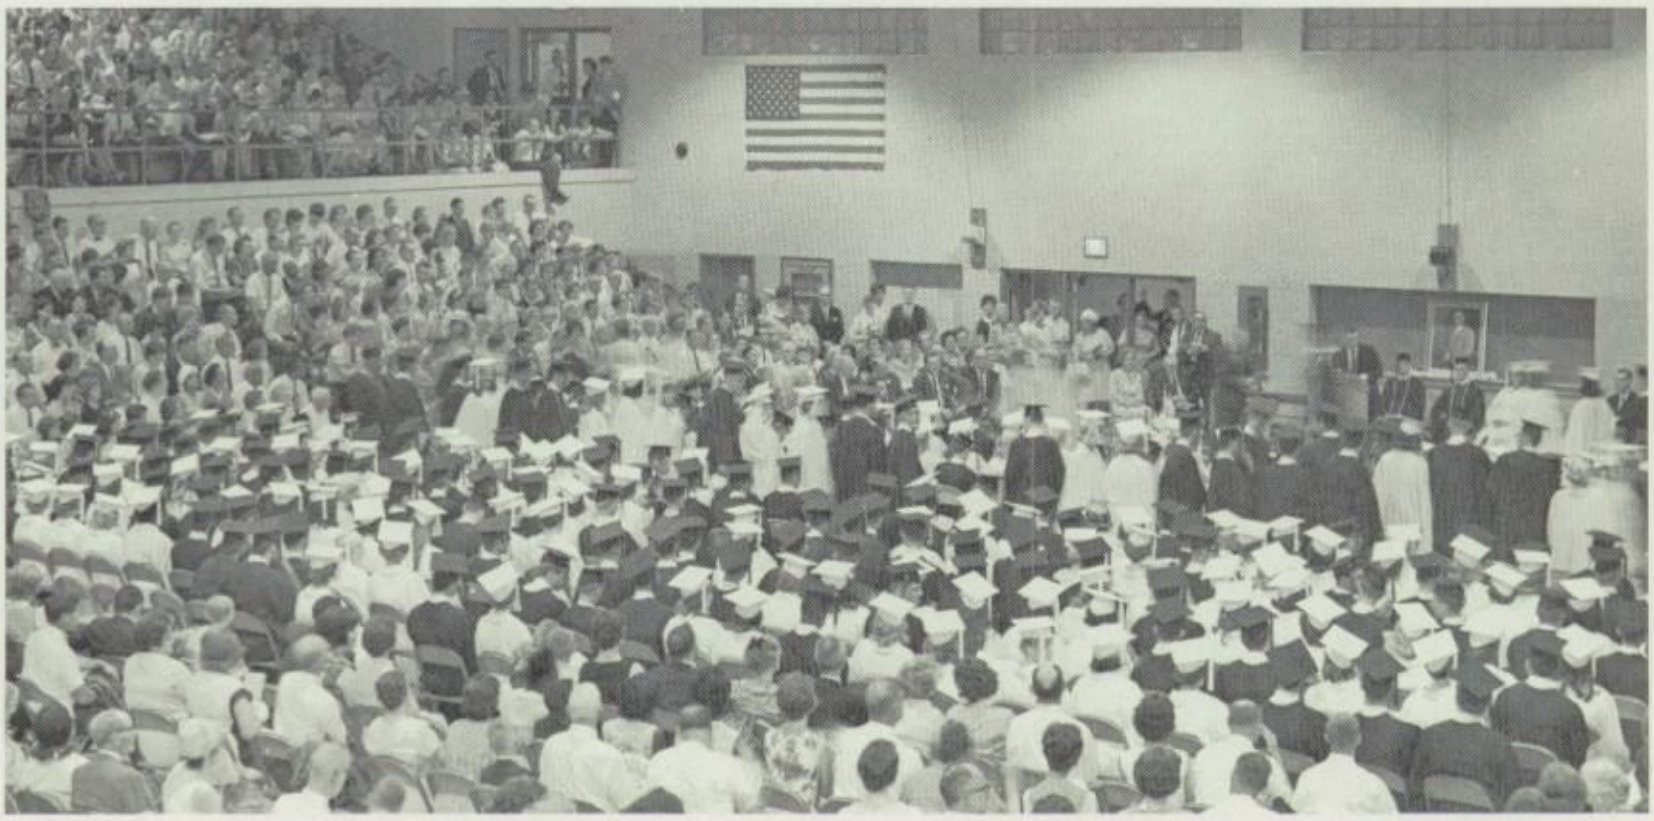
President of the Senior Class, John Grant, welcomes parents and faculty to commencement exercises.

Because the weather appeared threatening, commencement exercises were moved into the gym where diplomas were immediately awarded.



As the seniors assembled at the football field, an afternoon of food, friends, and lots of fun began.

The four-legged race proved to be a challenge to D. Polley, B. Shisler, and T. Pruden.

Senior dress-down day was combined this year with an afternoon picnic and field day. After a relaxing lunch at the river the senior class headed for the football field where the fun began. More fun than watching the events was actually participating. The water balloon toss became the most popular and cooling event. At the conclusion of the field events everyone was entertained by Bob "Flippo" Marvin. Because of the success of the afternoon, a senior picnic may become traditional at W.H.S.

Girls Exhibit Skill And Perserverance In Interscholastic Sports

A growing emphasis on interscholastic competition among girls brought about an increased interest in girls' field hockey. Three teams were chosen after several practices to represent our school. The "A" and "B" teams entered into competition with other school teams while "C" team members concentrated on learning the mechanics of the game. The "A" team attended a hockey clinic at Upper Arlington.

The Cardinal golf squad completed the season with an impressive 24-1-1 record. Coached by Mr. Samuels, the team also placed third in the district. The team of Tim Reardon, Mike Schurtz, Lindsey Thomas, and Scott Beaver, all juniors, carried Worthington's colors into the state meet and placed eleventh. With these boys returning with a strong reserve team, the Cards should have a powerful team again next year.

After a series of early morning tryouts Miss Bach and Mrs. Howell selected two basketball teams to challenge schools in the Columbus area. The "A" team squad prided themselves on their 5-3 record, while "B" team posted an equally successful 4-2 record.

Following basketball season, five volleyball teams were selected to compete against other schools in the central Ohio area. Team members practiced weekly to develop proficiency at spikes, set-ups, and serves. The teams enjoyed competition with Hilliards, Arlington, Carroll, and Lancaster.

Girls who have accumulated fifty or more points through participation in intramural activities are eligible for G.A.A. membership. Varsity W is opened to those boys who have earned a letter in a varsity sport.

Varsity W, advised by Ralph Sabock, is primarily a service organization. Members direct traffic at football games and sell programs in order to make Worthington activities safer and more enjoyable. One of the clubs most important projects is the Heart Fund Drive. This year the boys collected a record $1700. Officers who helped make the club successful included: President Bill Syverson, Vice-President Dave Burt, Secretary John Grant, Treasurer John Donavan, and Sargeant-at-Arms Rick Sulser.

The Girls' Athletic Association, advised by Miss Bach and Mrs. Howell, sponsored eight different intramural sports to provide W.H.S. girls with organized team play. Led by President Kerry Kimberly, Vice-President Martha Harrison, Secretary Candy Bellar, and Treasurer Candy Kent, the club enjoyed camping trips, canteens, and the traditional picnic.

The Cheerleading Club's main function is to promote sportsmanship and interest in sports in the school. Membership is open to all past cheerleaders at W.H.S. or from another high school. Among their activities are helping the present cheerleaders with basketball programs and posters, selling bumper stickers, and sponsoring the All Sports Dance.

Officers of the club are President Jodie Haywood, Vice-President Sherri Huffman, Secretary Margie Fisher, and Treasurer Margaret Simpson.

This, our first year of high school, has been a year of much learning and many new responsibilities. Active Juniors Prepare Smorgasbord

We the class of '67, anticipating the events of our senior year, also look back over our accomplishments. Our pool party, canteen, Halloween float, smorgasbord, and the Cardinal Booster Drive were just some of the activities. And everyone will remember the unique Junior-Senior Prom. All were very successful due to the industriousness of the class members. As seniors we hope to provide the leadership for the other classes, and to continue to uphold the traditions of Worthington High School.

Yearbook And Business Staffs

A yearbook is more than a brief account of yearly activities. It is a story that will last after memories have faded. With the Cardinal Staff, this yearbook is a point of pride, put together with frustration, cooperation, imagination, and hard work. Working under the supervision of Miss Hottenroth, editor Cindy Sullivan was assisted by editors in general areas: K. C. Arter, photography; Meri Forman, management; Mary Ann Eddy, layout; Margaret Tabor and Candy Kent, copy; Nancy Walker, faculty; Sally Davis, seniors; Kerry Kimberly and Susan Titus, index; Suzanne Freeland and Betty Baber, typists. Helen Weller, assistant editor, observed the construction of the '66 Cardinal as preparation for editing the book in 1967.

Of course, the Cardinal could not be presented without the help of a conscientious business staff. Under the direction of Jon Benner, the '66 business staff spent hours of their free time in selling and preparing advertisements, recruiting patrons, and featuring a professional directory.

Photography Editor K. C. Arter, Editor-in-Chief Cindy Sullivan, and Layout Editor Mary Ann Eddy relax after a busy photography session.

Business Manager Jon Benner and Managing Editor Meri Forman are responsible for financing the Cardinal through advertisements and patron's contributions.
